I had intended to insert in this issue of the journal a dialogue in Irish, as it is spoken in Waterford, i.e., as spoken in East Munster generally—in East Cork, Waterford, and the adjoining portions of Kilkenny and Tipperary; but I think the following, from the American Gaodhal, better than anything that I, or anyone I know, could write.

VOCABULARY, IDIOMS, AND LOCAL PECULIARITIES.

A gentleman, who is a ripe Irish scholar, though he does not speak the language, wrote to me lately to say that he is sometimes puzzled in trying to understand what I think so plain as not to require explanation: this lesson I will to explain clearly enough, even for the comprehension of beginners.

 βλοριάς, g. -μαιξ, a proper name, Power; in Munster, the final ξ, in many cases, is pronounced as g unaspirated: a βλοριαιξ απ έροιθε, O Power of my heart,

(2) point = poinn, a share, - Laeteanta = Laeteat, gen. plur. of Lá, a day; better poinn to Laetib o foin, a few days ago.

(3) 7=agur; mon b-réroin bom=mion buo féroin bom; 1 could not; it was not possible for me. In the west of Ireland this would be, nion ôts bom; . . . a δ'immpine oute, to tell to thee; recte a immpin oute, or e o'immpin oute. O'immpin="00 immpin, inf. of immp, tell. By speakers, and by many writers, too, in Ireland, and still more in Scotland, the pritcle vo, sign of the inf. mood, is incorporated with the verb, as if they were a simple word, and a="00 is put before the verb, aspirating the 0 as in a bimpine, above.

(4) So ve'n (vé an) c'-ácar, what was the joy=how great was the joy; So vé=cao é, what [is] it. an mηποιά vo cum pé onm, the courage it put upon ne=gave ne. v'paśathc, like v'imηπος above, inf. of paś, find, get. C-acap-u'acap (vo ácap, your father).

(6) bi lucţán onm, there was gladness on me (I was glad); a ctop=é το ctop, to hear. So mate 'γα τρασξαί (ηταη) in the world=in good circumstances; αξηγ ατο' (απο το) γιάπτε, in thy health.

(9) opnocamune. M. for opnioim, inf. of opnioim, I shut; with le, and its compounds, it signifies to approach; and with 6 and its compounds, to withdraw; as oprocamming from, drawing near me. (10) Azur mo corr (cor) am bruac na h-uaime. . on the brink of the grave. Lac for Lat in Munster; com mait le puat as well as red (foxy); man pin pein, even so; nevertheless. To cugur teim ar mo copp. I leaped (gave a leap) out my body; te h-ácar, with joy; 'nnancuataig mé an cuntup, when I head the account. Chualais, past tense of clumin, I hear. In Munster 3 is for v. An concup len, chuinn, the account clear, exact-but the English terms do not fully express the meanings. (14) Oo camiz a baile nair, that came home from thee. (15) Saodalann instead of zaobailge, in Munster. an υ-Δητημιζαό, the change; γεοόμη = γεοό, farther, more than: "There in a great change in the world," peocup man a bi pe pao o, beyond what it was long ago (compared to what). (18) nuan a biop am' buacaill og, when I was a young man agur tura ao' gaprun, and thou a boy. Roman = unmon na n-vaoineav, the most of the people. (20) 140 golein nac mon, they all very nearly (not great). Any puaro na h-áire po, turoughout this place. pertirée = privée, poets, tall rabur here and there (beyond and at this side). (25) abpain agur vants, songs and poems. Speulta granmoeacta, stories of the Fianus (any romantic tales were called pseulta grannuiseacta). (27) an paropin parpread oá pao ann gad cis, the rosary reciting in every house (the little beads in partnership). Mná caoince, women keeners. 45 cun rior an, relating, berg-gniomanca, good deeds. (30) an te beac (beroead) who would be; La pocharoe, funeral day; oroce conpraro, a wake night. Caointeacan, a dirge, or caomean is so called in Munster. (35) nil vana az clann na h-ampine 10, there is nothing with the children of these times (they have nothing). Cacena oo náo, to tell an adventure. 1p ooca, it is likely, nac b-purt a Leitéro po le pao, that there is not such as this to be said; pé'n (pá an) ngpéin, under the sun; acc 'ze enpe, but with Ireland : 'ze = ange and ange is for as in Munster.

(40) nac catac, nac oubac, nac bhonac, agur na vealb, is it not sad, is it not sorrowful, is it not grievous, and is it poor? (45) Timeroll tige mona, about great houses; ann rapball uarple, in the tail of the gentry; clann mo clanne, my children's children; (50) ip beapla labhaio Liom Tan n-air 30 mime, it is English they often speak to me back again. Szorlleana (rzolca) Zalloa, English schools. As cum (cum) verne lerr an ngaodalainn, putting an end to the Irish. 415 systodeshin, putting an end to the trish. Als einste guar, growing up. (55) As sabapts a nasant an asant an armsine, giving their face on (towards) the seas. It is done anny to be dean at aca, there is nothing for them to be done here. Mi'l na vaome ábalta ám a b-pává tabamt vórb, the people are not able to give their wages to them. neac eapita, every place lonely and desolate. San ann ace paname, there not being [left] there but an odd person, verna (ve na) reanna comappain (rean-comappain), of the old neighbours. Szoc na b-rean agur plun na m-ban, the best of the men and the flower (flour) of the women. (71) Cuip (cup) viob, go away (put off them). Agur gan monan viol rin rein ann, and not many even of them there. (73) buo mar an pap, thou wast a good hand at. (75) correeme mona, near the turi file. Come ao an cheroeam, keep the fauth; tabain ruar oo clann, bring up thy children; agur le (So) rgoil agur leigeann, and with schooling and learning; paor pmace, under correction; bioc (bioeso) cion agaz ain an ceanga gaeoilge, have a love for the Irish tongue; reacam an braon, shun the drop; act le grop-540, except with real necessity; rean-announnioe na (85) harte, the old (?) of the place; barliste rteac zac tháthóna pomnaiz, collected within every Sunday evening; ir mon an rapam aizne cuip oo licip opin-pa, great is the satisfaction of mind thy letter put on me.

P.S.—The natives of any locality in Ireland will find but little difficulty in the letter of Tomár Ruad; young learners might get it nearly by heart.
